7. Physical Description

The Vollintine Evergreen North (VEN) Historic District is located approximately 2.5 miles northeast of downtown Memphis, Shelby County, in southwestern Tennessee. This historic district is located due north of the Vollintine Evergreen Historic District and shares some very similar housing stock on the east end of the district. Set on 29.07 acres, the district is comprised of 282 primary and secondary structures, including one and one and one-half story residential buildings (there is only one two-story in Colonial), and garages, mainly in good to fair condition. The housing stock flows between the older section, being a homogenous example of the late 1920's and 1930's English Tudor Cottages and Craftsman styles and the newer section made up of Colonial Revival homes built on circular streets in the late 1930's and early 1940's. Seventeen of the primary structures are considered non-contributing, and only one of those are due to abusive alterations. The majority of non-contributing buildings do not meet the fifty year criterion and will probably be contribute to the district when they meet the age criterion.

The boundaries of the VEN Historic District are the McLean Boulevard to the west, Vollintine Avenue to the south, University Street to the east, and the north lot lines of Sheridan and Barksdale Streets, and Rainbow Circle to the north.

The east to west historical development of the area is evident in the changes in architecture styles from the Eclectic style cottages in the eastern section to the Minimal Traditional Cape Cod homes in Rainbow Circle. The street patterns change from the grid pattern used in the early years of the 20th century to the circular street pattern that began gaining popularity during the late 1930's and 1940's.

Colonial House

This has two stories, with a three-bay organization. The roof is side gabled or hipped, and the roof line is parallel to the street. The chimney is end-wall, and sometimes gabled dormers are present.

English Cottage

A variation of the Bungalow, this is a one or one and one-half stories house. It has asymmetrical massing of steeply pitched roof, with no eave overhangs. It has unusual window patterns, tall front chimneys, and a stoop entry porch. There is also often a side non-entry half porch. The entry can be pedimented and/or have a small portico.

Gable Front and Wing House

A front gabled plan with a side gabled addition connected at a right angle to form an L-shape. The entry and shed porch is found within the L made by the two wings.

Minimal Traditional

This term is used as a plan and style. The facade is very simple, with no embellishments. It has a medium-pitched roof, and eaves and rake are close. It is almost always is one story. Porches are porticos or stoops. Windows are not detailed, and are usually double-hung. Usually brick or frame is used as the building material. Stylistic elements are small circular windows, chimneys, or entry pediments, but their impact is limited.

Ranch

This term is used as plan and style. This has asymmetrical one-story shapes with low pitched roofs and a much wider facade than its predecessors. It most commonly has a hipped roof, but can also have cross
