THANKS TO E/NEWS CARRIERS

Since the founding of the E/News as a neighborhood newspaper about ten years ago, it has been distributed by volunteers - residents of the Vollintine-Evergreen neighborhood who care about their neighborhood. Many people have quietly contributed their time and energy with very little, if any, recognition. To all of these volunteers, a very large thank you is long overdue.

The E/News has a circulation now of over 5,000 copies. About once a month, it is hand-delivered door-to-door to every home, church, and business in the 2.7 square miles within the boundaries of the Vollintine-Evergreen Community Association (Watkins, Cypress Creek, Springdale/Trezevant, Overton Park Ave.).

The V/E area is divided into 110 routes, each covering about one block. Some carriers throw two or more routes; some employ neighborhood children to throw the E/News for them; and sometimes whole families share the responsibility.

It would be impossible to list every person who has delivered the E/News at some time, but the former circulation managers deserve special recognition: Cornelia Morris, Niki St. Cyr, Jean Bradfute, and Joe Hough. The V/E area is divided into six districts, and each district has a manager responsible for distribution within that district. The current district managers are: Julie Borys, Lew Griffith, Jim Martin, Mike Bursi, Carl Holmes, and Kathy Savard.

One hundred and three current carriers of the E/News are listed below. Look over this list of your friends and neighbors and then remember to thank them when you see them.

VECA RESIDENTS PLEASE TAKE NOTE!

Inserted in this issue of the E/News is a flyer concerning the security patrol VECA is trying to organize for our community. Please read it carefully, and if you are interested, complete the form and return it with the subscriber deposit to the address given. Nobody in the community is going to receive this service unless adequate subscribers sign up. If you are interested, act now and encourage your neighbors to do likewise. You'll feel safer for it.

CHAPMAN SPEAKS—

THE WORLD LISTENS

E. Winslow “Buddy” Chapman, director of Memphis Police Services, set the city on its ear at the VECA general membership meeting, February 1, 1981, at Lindsay Memorial Presbyterian Church. WHBQ-TV, WMC-TV, and The Commercial Appeal were among the members of the Memphis press present to hear Chapman’s talk on crime to an audience of about 150. The media headlined Chapman’s comments in subsequent news stories and follow up feature stories.

The remark that caused such a furor was Chapman’s suggestion that if rapists were castrated, rape would no longer be a problem in America. “Crime is not a police problem,” he stated but is a problem society must solve by sentencing consequences that would deter criminals. Chapman said that since rapists and burglars are likely to kill the witnesses to their crime and since the victims are usually the only witnesses, he is in favor of the death penalty. Chapman is bothered that today’s society is concerned with the rights of the criminal but has little regard to the rights of the victims. Chapman called for low cost deterrents to crime especially in light of the fact that it costs $32,000 a year to jail a criminal.

According to Chapman, the solution rate for crime in Memphis is 94-95%. The problem is that police are catching the same offenders over and over.

MMIA ANNUAL MEETING

The Mid-Memphis Improvement Association (MMIA) held its annual meeting and election of officers on January 15 at Trinity United Methodist Church. About 90 persons attended the meeting that was presided over by outgoing president Kay Portman, who received a loud ovation for her efforts over the last two years. Kay, in reflecting on the accomplishments of MMIA during her tenure, said, “I am the proudest of the downzoning of our neighborhood, our flea market, our Fourth of July parade, and the submission of our Stonewall Historic District proposal.”

Elected as president was Gail Mathes, an attorney and a resident of the MMIA area for five years. Gail, who is single and lives on Poplar, told the E/News, “My first priority will be to work with the Corridor Option Committee (CORC) to develop a plan for the best use of the I-40 corridor land. Secondly, east-west local traffic must be properly rerouted around and through our neighborhood. I hope that MMIA and VECA can work together and through the Council of Midtown Neighborhoods, because our mutual goals can be better accomplished through coalitions.”

Mary Tuthill was elected vice president. A housewife who lives on Dickinson and a resident of the MMIA area for over four years, Mary told the E/News “My number one goal will be to see that the neighborhood is safer. I would like to see a neighborhood watch developed and a security patrol considered. MMIA should work together with VECA to accomplish these common goals.”

Susan Littlefield, station manager for WEVL-FM, was elected secretary, and attorney Lloyd McDougal was elected treasurer. Directors elected were Sandra House, Hazel Fath, Gregory W. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Baer, Pam Moss, Dr. and Mrs. Ray Allen, Sam Stark, and Carl Holmes. Elected as alternate directors were Janis Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Everett, Dr. Daniel S. Beasley, and Rose Wallace.

James Glenn, chairman of the nominating committee, was thanked for his committee’s hard work in preparing the proposed slate of officers and directors.

Rae Ann Kramer of the Metropolitan Interfaith Association (MIFA) made an interesting and informative slide presentation of the history of the I-40 corridor.

Dr. Marshall Koonce, chairman of CORC, described its founding, growth, and progress. He said, “CORC is a non-profit corporation composed of about 25 members, many of whom are experienced in real estate, law, finance, planning, and architecture, and many of whom live near the corridor. Our goal is to have a plan for the best use of that land ready when that land becomes available.”

Those in attendance then discussed in small groups the use of the corridor land, reported their conclusions to the meeting, and turned written suggestions over to Dr. Koonce. Most suggestions favored primarily single-family residences, with a “midtown flavor,” and not stereotyped housing.

Madelyn Conrad reported on the continued success of the Snowden Community School program for adults.

Chapman urged for stiffer legislation to lock up criminals for longer periods of time. In the short run, he suggested that VECA residents host the crime van on their block. He urged residents to identify their goods, especially TV's and stereos, but stated that it does little good to mark gold and silver items as they are melted down immediately after being taken.

Burglary victims have the right to be kept posted on what is happening on their case. They must call the detective assigned to them. If residents are not satisfied with the way the police handles specific problems in their area, they are urged to report it.
